Cheesemaker

Cheese is a treat - especially if just spread on bread. It's just as suitable to be used as a spread under honey or marmalade as well as a dip, for scalloping and as a filling for antipasti.

But how can you make your own cheese? It's really easy. The original Börner recipe asks for milk (cow's, sheep's, goat's, lactose-free, soy or almond milk), a microwave or a commercially available pot and a coagulant, such as lemon juice or vinegar. First the milk is heated before adding the coagulant to clot it and afterwards poured into the Cheesemaker. The Börner Multimaker is the ideal companion for that!

THE SET INCLUDES:

Material: PP - BPA free
(Bisphenol A free)

Color choices:

No: BS20202

• Cheese sieve

• Serving plate

• Recipe booklet

FUNCTION

Cheese

You don't need a lot to make your own cheese. How easy it is to make cheese yourself is made obvious by the Cheesemaker from our company. In addition to milk, you just need some salt and a suitable acidifier such as vinegar or lemon juice. Additionally, you can also add spices and herbs as needed to get an individual and delicious taste.

Soft Cheese

We also recommend eating the cheese when it is still warm. If it is still a little softer, it tastes particularly delicious with different spreads. The combination of cheese and honey is great, but other jams or chutneys are an ideal companion for your homemade cheese as well.

Juicer

No more pressing takes place, but the fruit juice chambers are cut by fine teeth on the crown. The fruit juice runs automatically, leaving only the shells.

The juice is in the container. For example, make your own vitamin-rich kiwi juice. Simply put the kiwi in the holder, turn the crown back and forth several times and you're done!

Only the shell remains.

Now you can determine the freshness and taste of your juice, whether orange, grapefruit, melon, carambola, lemon, strawberry, pear, pineapple, tomato or cucumber juice. With Börner's Juicer it's child's play. Even fresh grape juice is no problem. Simply put grapes with stalk and style in the holder and juice. The result is fresh, naturally cloudy grape juice. Cocktails on request, with or without alcohol. Simply place the fruit holder on the juice container and the shaker is ready. Colourful, fresh, vitamin-rich drinks for breakfast, for in between, for parties.
